

UPCOMING SCIENTIFIC EVENT

The European Regional Conference of The International Association for Cross-Cultural Psychology, July 16-19, 2017, Warsaw, Poland

The 2017 regional conference of IACCP will be held in Warsaw, Poland from 16 to 19 July. The theme of the conference, “From a Cross-cultural Perspective: Conflicts and Cooperation in Shaping the Future of Europe”, reflects the geo-political, economic and social realities of Europe today that can be better understood from a cross-cultural perspective.

Europe and its direct geopolitical neighborhood have become a stage for many dramatic events and processes that no one would have dared to predict some years ago. The wars in the Middle East and the refugee crisis, the Russian-Ukrainian conflict, the economic and political tensions between the EU member states, affecting Union’s stability (e.g., Brexit), and the shocking terrorist attacks — are the most obvious examples of our day to day reality. These macro political problems have direct cultural roots as well as implications. Never before in its history has cross-cultural psychology been faced with such tests of practical importance. Never before have had the research problems on immigration, acculturation, and inter-group relations had so much relevance. The keynote speakers, invited symposia and round table debates will address these problems. Reports of comparative studies on basic psychological processes, personality and interpersonal relations; family and developmental issues, work-organizations, and other applied fields — are all welcome.

The latest information about important dates, keynote speakers, and fees is available on the conference web page: <http://www.swps.pl/nauka-i-badania/konferencje/iaccp2017>.
